

The Indiana "No Call" list is being challenged yet again. Please do not allow business interests to change or affect the current law. Nobody, and I mean nobody, with the exeption of the telemarketers thenselves, wants to be bothered at home by telemarketers. I know of no one who is against this active law. It has been simply wondeful to not be bothered at home. It angers me when I hear that telemarketers, or groups representing them, want to challenge this law that everyone supports. Please keep common sense at the forefront and allow us Hoosiers to keep the peace at home. WDT
